consists of a Himalayan and Bornean, and of a Japanese species, which have not webbed feet, but have a tail with a fringe of elongated hairs.

Nectogcdz elegctns is one of the characteristic animals of the "Thibetan plateau. It has webbed feet. Tho teeth are as in Ohimarrogale I f- C J Pin -J- M -§-.

The other genera are terrestrial in habit.

SUB-ORDER 2. DERMOPTEHA.

The family G-aleopitiiecidae contains but one genus, which has been at times referred to the Lemurs, to the Bats, or has been made the type of a special order of mammals. It is better to regard it as an aberrant Insectivore—so different indeed from other forms that it requires a special sub-order for its reception.

FIQ. 253.—Galeopitheciits volans.

×¼.